Lars Brovil
President

Dear friends of boxing,

It is my great pleasure to invite you to the U17 European Boxing Championships, taking place this year in Germany.

Earlier this year, we had the honor of hosting various national and international boxing events, demonstrating once again the strength and unity of our boxing community. This European Championship will be another milestone for the development of young boxing talents across Europe.

For many years now, we have been committed to organizing numerous international youth tournaments, such as the renowned Brandenburg Cup, which has provided valuable competitive experience for young boxers from all over Europe and beyond. This tradition underlines our dedication to supporting the next generation of athletes and promoting the values of fair competition and sporting excellence. Today, I am proud to serve as President of the German Boxing Association, which continues to stand for integrity, progress, and the advancement of our sport.

This championship also represents a wonderful opportunity to bring people from different countries together — to foster mutual understanding, exchange values, and celebrate the diversity of European cultures. I am personally delighted to see how sport, and boxing in particular, can build bridges between nations and strengthen the social dimension of international events like this one. It is my belief that beyond competition, such tournaments play an important role in connecting people and encouraging respect across borders.

We are excited to welcome you to the Olympic Training Center Kienbaum, an iconic venue known for its outstanding facilities and commitment to high-performance sports. Kienbaum offers excellent conditions for elite competition and convenient short distances between accommodation and the competition venue.

I wish all participants great success, fair and thrilling bouts, coaches satisfaction with their teams, and spectators powerful sporting emotions. We hope you will leave with lasting memories — not only of the championship itself, but also of the warm hospitality of Germany.

We are looking forward to seeing you in Kienbaum!

Kind regards,
Prof. Dr. Farid Vatanparast
President of the German Boxing Association

1. ORGANISER

The organiser of the competition is the German Boxing Association (DBV), which is the only state-recognized governing body for Olympic boxing in Germany. Founded in 1920, the DBV looks back on more than 100 years of tradition and excellence in the sport. With over 900 affiliated clubs, more than 90,000 members and more than 8,000 active competitive boxers, the DBV is one of the largest boxing federations in Europe.

Over the decades, the DBV has developed a strong national structure that includes grassroots development, elite performance pathways, and a dedicated focus on youth and talent promotion. Through numerous national and international events – such as the long-standing Brandenburg Cup – the DBV has helped shape the careers of many successful athletes and Olympic medalists.

The DBV is a proud member of World Boxing, actively contributing to the integrity and future of Olympic-style boxing on a global level. As a founding member of European Boxing, the association supports a united and values-driven European boxing movement. Hosting the U17 European Championships is not only a sporting highlight, but also a statement of Germany's commitment to fair play and the Olympic ideal.

In addition to its competitive success, the DBV places a strong emphasis on the social impact of boxing. Across Germany, DBV-affiliated clubs run projects focused on integration, violence prevention and character development, particularly for young people from diverse social backgrounds. These initiatives demonstrate how boxing can go far beyond the ring – offering opportunities, support and direction for the next generation.
